

Robin to the Rescue

Have you ever seen a baby bird on the ground? Baby birds are often not as lost as they look. Usually their parents are nearby, ready to feed and protect them. Birds can almost always take better care of their chicks than people can.

This robin has caught an earthworm. He will bring it to his baby. Draw a line through the maze to show the flight path he will take.

